Senators expressed concerns about budget cuts and transparency and noted they are hearing a sense of despair from faculty colleagues on this issue.

The Provost noted the budget is still a work in progress: they are aligning the budget to the academic plan. She asked faculty to remember that when the university expands and acquires or merges with other campuses, all of their assets become ours as well. She asked all senators to help carry forward a message of stability and strength to their colleagues.

A senator asked the administration to consider student representation on the Policy Oversight Committees.

The Provost said she would bring this request forward.

IV. CURRICULUM ITEMS:

1. ACADEMIC PROPOSAL: UNIVERSITY GRADUATE CURRICULUM COMMITTEE PROGRAM IN THE OFFICE OF THE PROVOST.

Davis Bookhart, Sr. Advisor for Sustainability, the Office of the Provost, described the proposal as interdisciplinary program with 10 concentrations across 7 colleges. This program has been designed with alignment to the new accreditation standards that have been designed by the Sustainability Education Accreditation Commission.

QUESTIONS AND DISCUSSION:

Waleed Meleis, Vice Provost for Graduate Education, said academic oversight for the programs was completely in the hands of the colleges. The programs have an administrative home in the Office of the Provost.

Prof. Walker suggested that moving forward it would be good to have some language about lines of authority in the curriculum documents.

Davis Bookhart said their market study indicates that jobs in the sustainability field is still growing.

Davis Bookhart said they are aiming for 40 to 50 students to get started. They have designed the program so that it is flexible for a plus one. They also think that this structure can be expanded to the other campuses in the global network as well.

Prof. Spencer moved the proposal and read the following:

BE IT RESOLVED That the University establish the Master of Science in Applied Sustainability, MS in the Office of the Provost as approved by the University Graduate Curriculum Committee 18 February, 2026 (17-0-0).

Prof. Majeswaran seconded.

The program has an overall course load of 32 semester hours and will launch on the Boston and Oakland campuses. Initial enrollment is projected at 15 to 20 students, growing to a steady state of 100 to 125 new students annually by year 4.

This degree is designed to meet growing workforce demand at the intersection of artificial intelligence, data analytics, and organizational leadership by pairing a six-course STEM core with one of six existing concentrations.

QUESTIONS AND DISCUSSION:

Prof. Walker asked since this program is going to be launched both virtually and on ground, she asked what steps are being taken to sort of shore up academic integrity in the context of the virtual versions.

Prof. Bolick one of the major initiatives that college is undergoing right now is the convergence of all of their graduate programs and doctoral degrees into a semester calendar. They've actively been designing those programs for both online and on-ground delivery and considering strategies for assessing students.

Prof. Spencer moved the proposal and read the following:
